

Successful piece of communication feedback is of the utmost significance in whose absence, the purpose of the communication remains an abortive exercise.

Communication Process

Communication Process : Main Components

The following elements are essential for complete transmission of message :

A brief description of these elements is as follow :

1. Idea : The process of communication begins with the origin of idea. The idea is an abstract

Abstract phenomenon, but it is incomplete unless it is communicated. It is the process through which abstract gains shape in the end.